Town residents who provide child care in their homes are reminded that in addition to the necessary state and county licenses, a permit is also required from the Town of Vienna to operate a child care facility.

If you care for five children or fewer (not including your own), you must obtain a home occupation license from the Town. For more than five children, a conditional use permit must be approved by the Town's Board of Zoning Appeals.

For more information, call the Department of Planning and Zoning, 255-6341.

PAINT DISPOSAL NOTICE

Residents may have noticed that paint cans and trash trucks are not compatible. When paint cans are thrown away, the result is often a colorful dribble down the middle of the street. Please allow latex paint left in the can to dry thoroughly before disposing of it.

Oil-based paint is considered hazardous material and should not be put in the trash.

Finance Award

The Certificate of Achievement for Excellence in Financial Reporting has been awarded to the Town of Vienna by the Government Finance Officers Association of the United States and Canada. The Certificate of Achievement is the highest form of recognition in the field of governmental accounting and financial reporting, and its attainment represents a significant accomplishment. The award is important in maintaining the Town's excellent bond rating.

In addition, an Award of Financial Reporting Achievement was presented to Finance Director Phil Grant as the individual primarily responsible for Vienna's having earned the certificate.

The Town's financial report was judged by an impartial panel to meet the high standards of the program, including demonstrating a constructive "spirit of full disclosure" effort to communicate clearly its financial story to citizens.

Countdown to Centennial

On the Road Again to Vienna

Many of Vienna's street names have a special character and significance in the town's history. For example, the intersection of Old Courthouse Road and Route 123 was the location of Fairfax County's first courthouse. The courthouse was relocated to Alexandria about 10 years later due to marauding Indians, but despite the change, country lawyers of the time continued to use a winding, tortuous track to pass through Vienna to Alexandria (and later, Fairfax City); this route became known as the "Lawyers" Road.

Between these first two arteries of the region that was to become Vienna ran the Old Georgetown Road, another twisting track, parts of which are traced by present-day Church Street.

The first maps of Vienna date from the mid-19th century. Perhaps the best known is the G.M. Hopkins map of 1878, reproductions of which are available from the Fairfax County Public Library's Virginia Room. The first aerial photographs of the Vienna/Tysons area date from 1937. Starting in 1960, aerial photos of the entire county were taken every two years and, as might be expected, show dramatically the fast-moving development of the town and environs during the past 30 years.

In August 1990, as part of Vienna's Centennial celebration, there will be a display of some of the vintage maps and aerial photographs that document Vienna's history and growth. Anyone interested in assisting in this exhibit or possessing old maps of interest are encouraged to call the Public Information Office at Town Hall, 255-6330.
